By NATALIA RENE

MOSCOW, Jan. 9.—Repeated German counter-attacks were smashed on the eastern front and Soviet forces drove to within 60 miles of Rostov, an official communique reported today.

Russian columns pushed ahead on both sides of the lower Don and were reported west of Orlovka, 70 miles from the key city which is the immediate objective of the multi-pronged offensive.

"Only a 34-mile gap now separates the spearheads of the Soviet forces driving south from the Kalmut Steppes and north from Moxdok, the Reuter news agency reports. The drive from Kalmuk, it was added, has reached a point 20 miles east of the Budenovsk railroad and 14 miles west of Urozhainoe."

Battle In Stalingrad

Far behind the main battle line the Russians fought bitter hand-to-hand battles in the ruins of shattered Stalingrad and drove the Germans from forty trench positions. More than 500 enemy troops were slain in the factory area on the northern outskirts of the Volga city.

The Soviet sweep through the northern Caucasus continued without interruption. German reserves rushed to the front failed to halt the advance of the Red army.

PA NEW C OBSERVES

Mighty few autos were to be seen in the vicinity of the George Washington high school last night, when New Castle high school played basketball. New regulations of the OPA ban use of autos for attending athletic events or going to places of amusement.

Already a lot of folks are discovering once again that it is possible to walk a few blocks without any serious after effects. The ban on use of autos will probably be a good thing for the health of many persons.

There is still a lot of reckless coasting on much traveled streets of the city. Boys and girls coasting on streets should use every safety measure possible to prevent accidents.

Gas rationing, driving restrictions, food rationing possibility, etc., are serving a curial some of the social events and other events that had been scheduled here. Many auto owners are much perplexed as to the right to operate cars to certain kind of functions under the OPA order, and are taking the only course possible refraining from making the trips.

William J. Stafford, of Wallace avenue, reported to The News that three sleds have been stolen from his children this week. Thursday night some of the sleds were found.

Reds Bite Deep Into Nazi Lines

This map shows the area where the Russians have engulfed twenty-three towns in the Caucasus and Middle Don front. They have cleared almost all the Nazis from Stalingrad (1) and taken a strategic hill to the west. In the Don river area, they captured half a dozen towns in the vicinity of Mariinsk (2). In the Caucasus they cleared the Nazis from the Terek River valley and captured a number of towns clustered northeast of Nalchik (3).

Billions For Cost Of War

Gigantic Budget For Year To Be Sent Congress By President Monday

MAY BE IN EXCESS OF HUNDRED BILLION

By ARTHUR F. HERMANN
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—President Roosevelt today completed the final draft of his budget message which he will send congress Monday calling for the largest appropriations in the history of the United States—reportedly in excess of $100,000,000,000 for war spending alone.

Along with the request for appropriations, it was confidently expected that the chief executive will call for additional taxes on individuals and corporations in order to pay a larger portion of war costs out of current earnings.

In what may well have been a forerunner of his budget message, Mr. Roosevelt at a press conference yesterday endorsed the principle of a "pay-as-you-go" of tax collection for individuals in order to pay the war, however, the President did not commit his administration to the policy because he pointed to large problems of mechanics which would be involved in any shift to pay-as-you-go taxes from the current system.

Reaction from capitol hill indicated that congress would support the President and the administration in its efforts to work out some system of placing tax collections on a current, rather than a deferred whereby the treasury would not lose large amounts of revenue.

American Bombers In New Tunisia Attacks

(International News Service)
ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, in North Africa, Jan. 9.—American bombers had a big day in Tunisia yesterday, a headquarters communique announced today. They carried out three attacks on the vital Axis base of Bizerte and a new objective, Ferryville, and bombed railroads and bridges throughout eastern Tunisia the communique revealed.

It also was announced that Maj. Gen. Carl Spaatz, commander of American Air Forces in Europe, had been appointed commander-in-chief of the Allied Air Force in North Africa.

Meanwhile a French camel corps flying column was disclosed officially to have stormed and captured the Axis-held outpost of El Catrun in the Fezzan region of southern Libya in a communique from the Fighting French headquarters of Gen. Jacques Leclerc.

French troops swooped down on the enemy position and captured many prisoners and much booty, the communique said.

The announcement that General Spaatz had assumed command of Allied Air Forces in North Africa rounded out the picture of complete American command in this theater of the war. It also was seen as an indication of the complete harmony among British, American and French military chiefs in the battle to drive the Axis out of North Africa.

Start Lifting Ration Books From Drivers

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, Jan. 9.—The O. P. A. started "lifting" gasoline ration books at noon from motorists defying the ban on pleasure driving. Guy J. Swope, the O. P. A. district manager at Harrisburg announced today.

He disclosed that the agency's investigation staff had been augmented with personnel from other federal divisions to report names and automobile license numbers of offending motorists to local rationing boards.

A majority of motorists have cheerfully complied with the order abolishing non-essential driving for an indefinite period. Swope said, and the more drastic steps have been initiated "against those who chose to be deliberate violators."

From top to bottom: The Blakeley (1) plows her way without a bow to a Caribbean port for repairs; (2) steams into the Philadelphia Navy Yard with a temporary bow; (3) stands ready in drydock to receive the bow of the decommissioned Taylor, an identical sister ship, which was cut away and turned in mid-air by a giant crane before it was installed (4) on the Blakeley. By LEE VAN ATTA
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

UNITED NATIONS HEADQUARTERS, in Australia, Jan. 9.—The fierce sea and air battle off the coast of New Guinea, during which Allied planes pounded a great Japanese convoy for three days, cost the enemy a third transport, damage to another, and destruction of at least 24 and possibly 46 more Nipponese aircraft, a communique from Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters revealed today.

This raised to five the number of enemy transports sunk or damaged and raised to 73 the total of Jap planes either shot down or put out of action.

Battle Is Ended

The battle, which began Wednesday, ended when the Allied Air Forces pursued remnants of the Japanese fleet into Lee harbor. So great was the havoc wrought on the enemy ships, the MacArthur statement said, that only "fragmentary" troop elements could be landed.

Japan May Use Huge New Battleships

Pacific Action May Force Use

Nipponese May Be Forced To Use Best Of Fleet In Pacific Battles

U. S. MIGHT NOW
GROWING RAPIDLY

By JOSEPH A. BORS
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)
WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—As American airmen continued their pulverizing attacks against Japanese bases and shipping, navy men asserted today that the Nipponese may use powerful new battleships in their desperate attempt to regain domination of the South Pacific waters.

With American aerial and sea strength growing rapidly, these sources stated that the Japanese could be expected soon to throw in units of their untouched home fleet, including huge new dreadnaughts, in another effort to win the upper hand in the New Guinea and Solomon areas.

Enemy Hard-Pressed
Reports of another crushing defeat for a Japanese armada in the New Guinea area served to bolster the growing belief that the enemy must throw in most of its remaining sea strength to overcome the American advantage in that war theater.

Japan is believed to have three and possibly five new battleships ranging up to the 45,000-ton class which have not been in action, and it was considered likely that the enemy high command may order these into battle soon against American dreadnaughts of the North Carolina-South Dakota class which have wrecked havoc in recent engagements in the South Pacific.

Such a move on the part of the enemy might well develop into the long-expected showdown fight which would determine for the duration of the war the fate of the Solomon and New Guinea as well as the sea lane approaches to Australia.

Sharp patrol actions were reported at various points as allied bomber squadrons continued attacks on Axis supply ports.

In the first two months of the North African campaign 344 Axis planes have been shot down and 147 allied planes have been lost.

American pilots were credited with shooting down 140 enemy aircraft.

Constant rain and bitter cold have slowed down operations in Libya, and virtually no action was reported from there.

While the rains ceased Wednesday, the terrain still is soggy and armored equipment is immobilized.

Pa Newc likes the spirit of DeLace Cole, of Euclid avenue. He has had a sign printed with the inscription, "You are Welcome to Ride," which he has placed in the front of his car, and he backs up the welcome by riding other folks. Too many motorists, some with C cards and many with B cards, pass up people waiting for transportation to town as if they all had smallpox. Gasoline rationing questionnaires for additional gasoline units ask specifically, "how many other passengers will you ride?" We doubt if some motorists have ridden anyone yet.

Pa Newc noted an old fashioned bobsled drawn by a team of horses in the city on Friday afternoon.

Waggoner walks an estimated 5000 miles per year on his job. His daily average is 15 $\frac{1}{2}$  miles, sometimes through slush, rain, or sub-zero cold. He wears out at least two pairs of shoes each year.

The three-day toll of Japanese ships and planes was:

Ships—Three transports sunk including one sent down with all hands, including an estimated 2,000 soldiers; one transport seriously damaged.

Planes—At least 42 destroyed, 12 planes probably destroyed, 19 damaged.

Strafe Airdrome
While heavy bombers were blasting a convoy, fighters and light bombers strafed the Lae airdrome as well as the barges and beachheads by which the Japanese sought to land their troops, it was revealed.

Still other planes ranged against the enemy airdrome at Gasmata in New Britain, setting large fires in a blistering night attack, and against shipping off Kai Island. A direct hit was scored on a Japanese torpedo ship off Kai, headquarters declared.

The Japanese convoy presumably came from the enemy-held base at Rabaul, New Britain, where forces are being massed for assaults on Allied bases in New Guinea and the Solomon Islands, and possibly for an attack on the Australian mainland.

Prepare For Assault
As bombers fought off the Japanese invasion force American and Australian ground troops prepared for a final assault on the enemy positions on Sanananda Point on the Papuan coast of New Guinea.

Only a few hundred troops of the original invasion force of 15,000 men which landed in the Buna-Gona area last July were believed to have survived the Allied counter-offensive.

But they were strongly entrenched, and their positions were being pounded from the air and by artillery barrages in preparation for the final assault.

The heading German retreat continued in the north Caucasus under increased pressure of Red army forces driving from the east and south. As they retired the Germans abandoned large stores of equipment and supplies.

More than a score of towns and villages fell to the Russian armies smashing through the Don Basin and the northern Caucasus in a determined effort to cut off German divisions.

Soviet forces advancing along the Stalingrad-Krasnodar railroad drove the enemy from the town of Zimovniki, 157 miles southwest of Stalingrad.

The Parent Problem

By Gary C. Myers, Ph. D.

TRAINING GIVES CHILD SELF-RELIANCE

Though we parents want our child to grow self-reliant, we are prone to hamper him in his efforts in this direction. We don't do so on purpose; we do it in spite of ourselves. Mother Nature prompts us.

We are creatures of habit. We must care for the infant while he is helpless; then, having become accustomed to caring for him, we keep on when he should help himself. We are sure, moreover, we can do for him better than he can do for himself.

During his early months, we have to talk for him, tell his name, how old he is and the like, but when he can talk for himself and answer questions directed at him we continue speaking for him. We even do it when he is in his teens. In this way, we rob him of self-confidence.

Another reason we do these things is because it makes us feel more necessary and important. This desire causes us to treat our growing children as younger than they are—which greatly annoys them; it also causes grandparents to act harmfully toward their grandchildren.

Let me offer some suggestions for cultivating self-reliance in the child. First of all, strive to do nothing for the child that he can do for himself.

Let Child Answer
As soon as the child can give his name or tell his age, or answer concerning other facts about himself, don't allow yourself to answer for him.

As soon as he can feed himself—the infant at a year of age can do so, in part at least—let him. Also let him comb his own hair, wash his own hands and face, even bathe himself, as soon as he is able to do so.

When the child over eight or ten wishes to experiment at following a recipe in baking or cooking, even at preparing a meal, encourage him. Be patient with him. Don't look for perfection. Remember he is learning.

As your child, in his work or play, does things in ways you dislike or know to be less skillful than your way, don't insist on your way, so long as he does not injure himself or property.

Allowances
As he begins spending a bit of money, help him learn values and practice in the principles of a good budget and allowance, hoping that by the time he is in high school, he will have learned to buy most of his own things wisely; not just in his choice of clothes, but in his choice of so many other things, and in practice at making decisions for himself where he is able safely to do so, you can help him find ways at development in self-reliance.

If, when the child is most eager to do something for himself, we let him, even though it takes our time and tries our patience, he will want to go on helping himself; but if we discourage him then, by doing it for him, he either may be vexed and give up, or willingly let us go on doing for him.

My special bulletin on allowances may be had without cost to you by writing me at 235 East 45th street, New York City, enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp on it.

Solving Parent Problems
Q. Suppose you had a son 16 years old who spoke abusively to you and his mother?

A. I should sit down with his mother and examine with her all our ways with him and try to ascertain how his bad attitude developed and what we have done to encourage it. Then I should hope that we parents might work on ourselves to avoid arguments with him and keep very calm and silent when he is most abusive. At a favorable moment with him, I should ask him, quietly, if he would not like to mend his ways. I should put no faith in lecturing, scolding or punishing him but considerable faith in winning his self-respect and esteem for us. A selected list of books on how to understand the teen-age youth and guide him well may be had by writing me at 235 East 45th street, New York City, enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp on it.

National Debt Reaches Staggering Sum
May Reach Near Quarter Trillion Mark
Byrnes Favored As Roosevelt Successor

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—Time was when folk were shocked at the idea of a national debt exceeding a billion dollars. That sounds laughable now, with a billion only a mere smallish fraction of what the total amount is.

I've wandered how soon we'll get into the trillions.

A late treasury report indicates that it will hit near the quarter of a trillion mark in June, 1944.

Theoretically, I can count into quadrillions and quintillions. Above the latter bunch of figures I have to look in a dictionary of an arithmetic for whatever other kinds of trillions follow.

I judge that our next generation is due to learn all about the quadrillions, at least.

We may register a trillion toward the end of our own era. Our offspring probably will score into the quads and our grandchildren should be able to arrive among the quins, if they're relatively as free spenders as we are.

Nature will have to take its course then, I suppose, since I don't know the name of the next batch of figures.

Anyway, trillions are the ones we'll have to stew over for the present.

Today's Economic Director James F. Byrnes is liable to have the matter as one of his future worries. He's reported to be President Roosevelt's choice to succeed himself.

Vice President Wallace has been the best guess hitherto, but he isn't momentary. It isn't very clear how he's gone floozy, but Byrnes appears to have supplanted him.

Byrnes Over Wallace
Political analysts surmise that F. D. R. believes he'll be a stronger 1944 Democratic candidate than Henry Wallace would be.

There's a growing suspicion that the president's aversion to risking defeat in a fourth campaign, a possibility at which the last congressional election result rather strongly hinted, it would be quite an insidious windup to his record of past triumphs.

It would be a trifle inglorious for him, however, to have the next Democratic nominee beaten as a New Dealer.

And that last election suggested very forcibly that Henry Wallace's popularity rates as outstanding in the New Deal classification. Things Henry subsequently has said, politically more or less indiscreetly, have served to solidify this impression.

The World and the Mud Puddles

RADIO MONKEY-WRENCHES
The bacterial cultures of "divide and conquer" continue tirelessly to spread the deliberate misdeeds and half-truths. "Some part of even the oldest lie is sure to stick," wrote Adolph Hitler in Mein Kampf. The story of the war of nerves, launched by the German propaganda machine, and its effect on conquered countries prior to invasion by Germany, has grown so familiar—so old that we tend to ignore it when it reappears.

We treat it like common cold and say, "Oh, well, just another one."

No sooner has the Allies occupied North Africa than Germany began work. The Nazi-controlled Paris radio diffused the news: "The United States troops in Algeria have taken over large reserves of gold transferred to North Africa in 1940."

This bold lie was large enough to be in Hitler's list of those worth telling. Over the Berlin radio came word that American planes had flown over Lisbon at low altitudes, the implication that we had violated Portuguese neutrality. Once uttered, such stories are difficult to disprove by the average citizen of any country. We don't always have at hand the immediate word of annihilation of the accurate information, and the lie tends to stick or worse yet, to circulate widely.

Japanese propaganda is so biatry, inaccurate as to be more apparent. According to their arithmetic, for instance, they are sinking United States carriers faster than we build them! Tokyo broadcast she had sunk seven or eight carriers before the Solomon Islands action. During the action, she claimed to have sunk nine more. Then three more. Perhaps the astigmatism of Japanese hopes sees in triplicate.

We should continually question the sources of information and emotion with regard to any question arising as between the United States and her Allies. Prejudices, even are often based on nothing more real than garbled information. Let us ask: "Is it true? Who said it? What's behind it?"

Support For The Army

Washington, Jan. 9

FROM VARIOUS quarters opposition to the expansion of the army to the 7,500,000 men now planned for it has been made manifest. More is expected. The most recent dispatch has come from WPB and Manpower Commission authorities, who feel that the War Department plans should be scaled down. It is reported a similar feeling exists in the Office of Defense Transportation and in the Food Administration.

ALL OF which raises an issue. Are we going to expand the army, then national acceptance of their judgment is inevitable. That is it, inevitable unless we propose to discard the present military leaders and install new ones.

AND THAT, even if it were possible, would be a fine way to lose the war. For the fact is that the army in the past year has done a really great job. Perhaps mistakes have been made but no big ones. On the contrary, the army has exhibited not only imagination and foresight, but a quality of practical, effective planning plus ability to put its plans in operation, which to put its plans in operation, which justifies pride in its record and a full degree of public confidence.

Therefore, when the army with Presidential concurrence, asserts that 7,500,000 armed men are needed to crush Germany and Japan, there is every reason for believing that the army knows what it is talking about, none whatever for questioning its judgment.

LOOKING AT LIFE

—By Erich Brandeis

A very good friend tells me a story about his wife.

She had some trouble with her throat.

So her family physician, Dr. C., sent her to a throat specialist, Dr. W.

She liked the family physician very much, the throat doctor not at all.

She couldn't tell why—but when a woman doesn't like, she just doesn't like—don't ask her why.

The throat specialist prescribed a medicine which was yellow and sweetish.

The woman paid $10.00 to the specialist, took the medicine—and it didn't do her any good.

"I just haven't any confidence in that man," she told her husband. "I know he's a doctor, but I don't like him."

So the husband called up the family doctor and told him about his wife's aversion.

"I think it's just imagination," he said.

"I think so, too," said the family doctor (who charges only $3.00 a call, instead of the specialist $10.00). "Let me check up on this."

So the doctor called up the specialist and found that the medicine he has prescribed was exactly the kind he used himself in similar cases.

He called the woman's husband, "Why don't you send your wife to my office?" he said. "I think I can fix her in a jiffy."

She went and got a prescription. This time the medicine was red and bitter.

She took it for three days and felt much improved.

"See," she said to her husband, "there's a real doctor for you. No wonder I have confidence in him."

About a week later, the husband ran into the doctor and told him how much he had helped his wife. "Thanks," said the doctor. "I gave her exactly the same medicine Dr. W. prescribed for her. Only I had it made up red instead of yellow and bitter instead of sweet."

I'm not a doctor, so I can't prescribe for you.

But the next time you get sick, mix your medicine with a good deal of will-to-get-well. It'll work like a charm.

Thanks, no fee.

IN VIEW of this planned expansion of the army, two things seem essential—first, that the people as a whole accept the fact that this year their individual and collective sacrifices will be very much greater; second, that the President bring the military heads together in some sort of war cabinet where daily contact, standing and cooperation assured.

Once the 7,500,000 army has been decided upon—and it has been—there ought to be no opportunity for any agency head to threaten or sand on the track. If there are objections, they ought to be presented in the war cabinet, there debated and either met or rejected. But, once a basic military policy has been evolved and announced, there should be no question of support. That should be complete. There is no other way to win the war.

believes that it can supply the bulk of these 7,500,000 men abroad with food, clothing, ammunition, planes, guns and tanks. And, the navy has said that it not only can transport the troops but the supplies. In brief, the heads of our military and naval establishments have not only planned to expand the army far beyond its present figure but are certain the expanded army can be maintained, supplied and transported to the battlefronts across the seas.

THAT, OF course, cannot be done except through the united and coordinated exertions of the war production and regulating agencies. And that is why the disposition of some of these to pull back instead of push forward on this 7,500,000-big reason so many of these government agencies find unpalatable the proposal to induct 3,000,000 more men into the military service this year is not hard to find. Such an increase unavoidably will add greatly to their own burdens, make more difficult the jobs already, in some cases, find too difficult.

FROM ONE quarter the complaint is that such an expansion in the overseas forces will render far more acute the food shortages at home. Will require stiffer rationing of the civilian population, impose new hardships upon the people. From another, it is said that the addition of three million more men will put an almost unbearable strain upon the already badly strained railroads. From another, it is argued that the expansion will make it more difficult for the farmer to find farm hands and for the war industries to find workmen, and that the whole manpower situation will be made worse. Let it be admitted at once that these contentions are all sound. But, what of it?

BEYOND QUESTION three million more troops on the army means a further dislocation of civilian life and greatly enhanced sacrifices upon the part of the stay-at-home population. It means, too, harder problems and harder work for the agency heads at Washington. It means less food, less gasoline, less clothing and less axes—more sacrifices all down the line. Nevertheless, these additional millions of men are needed to win the war. Instead of finding reasons why the enlarged army cannot be handled, it would be much more to the purpose if the present objectors would devote themselves to finding ways by which it can be handled. For example, there would seem no longer even the flimsiest excuse for our Administration politicians fudging the extension of the forty-hour week to forty-eight hours, which would be equivalent to adding several million men as workers, or to avoid any of the other logical steps for increasing manpower, despite lobby opposition.

Remember our meeting on Monday night with Mrs. Orra Kyle Snyder on Highland avenue. Knitting for the Red Cross will be the nature of the leisure hours, and the usual social period will follow. The same time will be observed.

HEAD OF FAMILY EXEMPTION

A single person or a married person not living with husband or wife, is entitled to a personal exemption if he is the head of a family. A head of a family is "an individual who is the head of a household and maintains in one household one or more individuals who are closely connected with him by blood relationship, relationship by marriage or by adoption, and whose right to exercise family control and provide for these dependent individuals is based upon some moral or legal obligation."

Examples of head of family status would be a widower or widow who child, or a son who supported and maintained a household for a dependent father or mother. In order to meet the test of actual support, the taxpayer must furnish more than one-half of the support and maintenance.

ing and maintaining in one household relatives of this degree he is entitled to head of family exemption.

A taxpayer is considered to be "closely connected by marriage" with his step-sisters and step-brothers, but whether his right to exercise family control and provide some moral or legal obligation must be decided upon the facts in the particular case. The same considerations apply to the status of a taxpayer because of support furnished to his father-in-law, mother-in-law, brother-in-law, sister-in-law. First cousins by blood, not regarded as so "closely connected by blood relationship" as to give rise to a head of family exemption.

A legal guardian who may maintain and support in his home a dependent ward is not entitled to the personal exemption as head of a family if the ward was not connected with him by relationship of blood, marriage or adoption; nor is a taxpayer entitled to exemption as head of a family by virtue of maintenance and support of a child not legally adopted.

Health Talks

By DR. W. A. WOMER
City Health Superintendent

SMALL POX

Just now we are reading a lot about a small pox epidemic. They occur quite frequently.

We get to feeling pretty safe and good that small pox is one for good. Then a brisk epidemic flares up.

We are always in danger of an epidemic if everyone were properly vaccinated, there would be no epidemic.

There are always a few people who oppose vaccination. They talk pretty much when there is no epidemic. When there is an epidemic they usually keep quiet.

Countries which enforce vaccination strictly do not have much small pox. Those which are careless about it have a lot of small pox.

Some religious organizations oppose vaccination. They get small pox and spread it too.

The system in our state is to require all school children to be vaccinated. There seem to be some flaws. The teachers do their best.

Vaccination does not last a lifetime usually. It is safer to repeat it every few years.

We have had some small pox here in the last forty years. There has been no epidemic.

One of our school janitors got small pox a few years ago. The children were so well vaccinated that they were all safe.

No alien is admitted to U. S. without vaccination.

Placed in cartons of one dozen, the extra eggs called for by the government to meet war needs would reach from here to the moon.

Officials Of 'Axis', Ala., Stand Firm In Refusing
To Change Town's Name(International News Service)
AXIS, Ala. — Because of its name, this small Mobile County town, which for 38 years prior to Pearl Harbor was a peaceful community, has become something of a thorn in the side of thousands of people in the United States.

Telegrams from New York and letters from every state in the union, according to Postmistress Miss Christine Anderson, whose father, with Charles Kirk, founded Axis in 1904, have urged the little town to go "all-out" for victory by changing the town's name.

"We have already gone 'all-out' for victory," Miss Anderson asserts. "Twelve youths have already enlisted in the nation's armed forces."

"Charles Bretzman, 17-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Bretzman of Axis, is the only boy left. He expects to go as soon as he becomes of age."

The postmistress declared she saw no reason for changing the town's name. "My father, Charles Anderson, from Ohio, and Charles Kirk, from Pennsylvania, came here in 1904 to begin their lumber business."

"When their families came down to join them, they began to realize the need for a grocery store and post office," Miss Anderson said, and wrote the post office department for a list of names, none of which suited them. So they wrote for another list, and from this selected the name "Axis" because it was short and no other town had the same name.

Miss Anderson, who succeeded her brother-in-law, F. S. Vaughn, in 1928, declared "our family has been here every minute since." Vaughn was the town's first postmaster, and is now a rural mail carrier.

"The town was named Axis before the war began," Donald Kirk, son of one of the town's founders interposed.

The postmistress said tourists often stopped and asked why they don't change the town's name, "but they don't suggest any other name for it and seem to think anything but Axis will do."

"I don't see why we can't be just as patriotic with the name Axis as we could if it were changed. All post office forms are printed with the name Axis on them for the next year. The money we would have to spend changing them could be used on war bonds."

Miss Anderson said Axis was also going "all-out" in the sale of war stamps. "We were only allowed to sell them since July 1, but sales are rapid and we are expecting a large increase."

Kirk, who has a son, Doland, Jr., in training in the Jacksonville Naval Air Station, added:

"We'll let Axis remain as a monument to the defeat of the Axis."

The Foundry

Few divisions of industry are as spectacular and as colorful as a foundry. The vivid flames . . . the molten metal . . . the split-second timing of every action provides life, motion and co-ordination not found in other phases of business.

There's a tinge of romance . . . a background of adventure in foundry work. Johnson Bronze reaches out to the four corners of the world for the basic metals necessary for bronze. Antimony from the mountains of China, Tin from the Straits Settlement or Bolivia, Nickel from Canada, Manganese from Russia, Copper from Arizona, Lead from Colorado, Zinc from West Virginia—all meet and alloy in our furnaces.Few industrial operations demand such a high degree of skill . . . of experience . . . and co-operation as foundry work. Melting and pouring temperatures must be held to an exact degree . . . patterns must be correct to within a thousandth of an inch . . . cores must be accurately placed.This skill and experience cannot be bought . . . it must be developed. Here we see a prime example of the working of a Johnson Bronze policy. The men who supervise the foundry have come up from the ranks. They have served their time at the furnaces ... at the molders bench, on the pouring line. They know from experience how and when to perform each coordinated operation.An indication of how well they do their work can be gained from the acceptance of our products.
Johnson Bronze quality is recognized as the standard in every type of industry.

RELAX BUS RULING

Word has been received by Chief Air Raid Warden Frank T. Sargent, from the office of A. C. Maris, executive director of the Pennsylvania State Council of Defense, that regulations governing the discharge of passengers from buses during air raids has been relaxed during inclement weather.

The statement from Mr. Maris says that during inclement weather until further notice, the following regulations will apply:

(A) Under conditions of an air raid, operators and occupants of motor vehicles, buses, subway and elevated trains, shall be required to comply with all of the provisions of the Rule, excepting that they shall not be required to leave the vehicle and seek shelter.

(B) Under conditions of an actual air raid, ascertainable by the dropping of bombs in the immediate vicinity, the operators and occupants of such conveyances shall be required to seek shelter immediately.

The above modification of the provisions of Rule Two has been made in consideration of the possible impairment of the health of persons required to leave vehicles for purposes of drill during inclement weather.

NEW CLASSES FORMING

Another new class is being formed at the Lincoln and Garfield school on Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock, for wardens, fire watchers, etc., from the fifth and eighth wards in particular, and any others who may wish to attend.

POST 1-3 TO MEET

Wardens of Post 1-3 will have a meeting at the post headquarters on Tuesday evening, January 12 at 8 o'clock, with Senior Warden Joseph Paluzak in charge.

SIXTH WARD MEETING

A meeting of all wardens, fire watchers, and messengers of the first precinct, sixth ward, will take place at the Smithfield street fire station on Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

BUSINESS MEETING

A business meeting of O. C. D. workers of the Second ward, second precinct, took place last evening at the precinct post.

FROM ME TO YOU

By MESEALL

Attended a little party last evening. . . Now you say, so what? Lots of people go to parties. Lots of people went to a party last evening. . . so they did and maybe they came to the same conclusion that we did as they walked along. Heretofore we have always driven to and from all places that we desired to visit. Down town without a second thought. . . rush here and there. . . making dates for here and giving yourself just a few moments to the next date, and you could do it if you drove like mad. Well, that's all over. Now you start a little earlier. . . sometimes a lot earlier and you walk or ride the bus. Unless you are very, very narrow-minded you will begin to enjoy the experience and before you know what will happen to you. . . you begin to feel much better down deep inside. Yes, this no gas for pleasure, might turn a new light on this world for a lot of people. . . Those who have difficulty in walking because of old age or some physical condition will of course be in hot water. . . Taxis are sometimes expensive but well planned budgets can be arranged to take care of morale building trips. We must do our part here at home. . . There are millions of boys not enjoying the luxuries we have even when we walk and do without a few items. . . give them a helping hand and sooner than you think. . . things will be back to normal.

The city street department have, we think, solved the ash problem for the street situation. With the ashes they have been mixing a few cents worth of salt. The salt acts as a binding agent and when the ashes hit the ground they stay put. . . cars going around corners or stopping for traffic can pick up the ashes as easily and throw them to the side. . . Councilman Gibson deserves credit for that one. Usually we find cause to say unpleasant things about the ashing situation but so far, this year has been satisfactory.

There are probably some who are wondering what they will do tomorrow about going to church. . . it is permissible to drive to church if the trip is a difficult one. In fact we recommend you use your car to go to church. . . the battery needs stirred up. . . so drive to church. Church will do you good and the trip will do your car good. So make up your mind tonight. . . set

Stock Session Is Irregular

Moderate Activity Is Reported In Utility Stock Trading During Morning

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—The stock market turned in another dull and irregular session today, with moderate activity in utilities, mostly preferred issues, again a feature.
Gains in utility preferred shares ran to as much as a point in Engineers Public Service 6 per cent, and almost as much in Public Service of N. J. 5 per cent. Others, including Electric Power and Light, American Power and Light and Commonwealth and Southern senior issues, advanced fractions.
American Telephone was unusually active on a rise of a point to 132.
U. S. Steel Bethlehem, Anaconda, Westinghouse, Santa Fe, Union Pacific, Texas Co., Montgomery Ward, American Car & Foundry and American Tobacco "B" all were a shade higher.
A handful of reorganization issues were active in an otherwise colorless bond market. U. S. governments were about unchanged. The curb market was quiet and generally steady. M. J. Zinc, which dropped more than a point, and Electric Bond and Share, down a fraction, were outstanding among those issues which incurred losses.

New York Charges Chaos In Gas, Oil Ban Enforcement

Muddling, Misunderstandings Added To Charges Of
"Discrimination"

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—Users of gasoline and oil in New York were in a dither today as charges of muddling were matched by orders to close schools for one week and police seizure of ration books held by "pleasure" driving motorists.

Charges that chaos in the oil situation was created by the belated order of Federal Petroleum Administrator Harold L. Ickes specifying non-preferential users of fuel oil was made by Edwin A. Salmon, city planning commissioner.

Acute oil stock shortages in the city, it was reported, were complicated by a misunderstanding among retail distributors.

E. S. Ferguson, OPA regional director, charged "discrimination." Thousands of homes and institutions were "cracking" users of fuel oil because they were refused deliveries by dealers who had oil on hand, after being informed that their regular sources of supply had no stock. He asked persons so affected to report such violations of OPA regulations.

In the field of gasoline, New York City police along with authorities in other eastern seaboard cities were "cracking" users of motorists who ignored the pleasure driving ban. Nine ration books were seized by police in the city. At least a hundred other motorists in other cities of the state lost their coupons.

The city's streets today continued to resemble days of the gas-line era except for taxis and trucks. Passenger cars were almost as scarce as in the early 1940's. Yet police reported yesterday that traffic patrolmen had taken license numbers of no less than 46,000 privately-owned automobiles which were on the streets.

Daily Dozen

(From the Medical Society of the State of Pennsylvania)

Circles under eyes, no appetite, nervous.

Sounds like the case of an overworked business man.

But it happens to be a young student in a city school.

Many children, especially in the cities, suffer from fatigue.

Their days are over-organized with work and with play.

They are overworked, overtired and overstrained.

In addition to school, there is music, or dancing, or singing.

Modern noises, clatter and restlessness produce fatigue, too.

A whining, fussy, fretful child may be just a fatigued child.

Fatigue can cause loss of appetite and sleeplessness.

It may cause nail biting, thumb
sucking, temper tantrums.

Fatigue in a child may lead to serious after-conditions.

AROUND CITY HALL

Tax levy and appropriation ordinances for the operation of the city
this year have not been adopted.

Copies of the measures have not yet been received from the printers.

Police are watching pleasure drivers. The city police were requested by the OPA to make investigations of cars which are used for such purpose. People who do not obey the move which the OPA has ordered may be summoned before the gasoline rationing board to explain why their cars were out.

Sodality Dance Scheduled Tonight

Girls of the Young Ladies Sodality of St. Joseph's church will have a Catholic Acacia dance, this evening, on the newly prepared dance floor of the Ecclesian club.

Dancing will start promptly at 8:30 o'clock, to the music of select dance selections.

All young men of the various Catholic parishes have been invited to this affair, and all Catholic young men serving in our armed forces, now home on furlough, are invited as special guests.

An enjoyable evening of entertainment and fun, has been planned by the committee in charge, and is expected that a fair crowd will attend.

MAYOR LENIENT IN POLICE COURT

Mayor Charles B. Mayne had a light police court today. Two persons appeared before His Honor. One was a woman who was taken in charge for her own welfare last night because she had imbibed one too many and the other person a man, reportedly abused his family and was taken in custody. The mayor discharged both today in court without imposing a fine.

Heavy Penalties Confront Authoress

If Convicted, Ursula Parrott
Liable To Twelve Years
And $12,000 In Fines

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 9.—Penalties as high as a total of 12 years imprisonment and fines aggregating
$12,000 today confronted Ursula Parrott, authoress, if convicted on all three counts in an indictment by a federal grand jury.

One count charged "subversive activities in undermining the loyalty, discipline or morale of the armed forces," another charged her with seeking to entice Pvt. Michael Neely Bryan to desert, and a third alleged
"harboring" of an army deserter.

Trial of the four-time wed writer of popular novels is expected to start next month. The indictment was the outgrowth of her driving Bryan out of an army prisoners' stockpile where he was being disciplined for being AWOL. Bryan, 22, is alleged to have hidden in the rumble seat of her automobile.

Remaining in military custody, Bryan faces possible prosecution on a narcotics charge stemming from his alleged connection with sale of marijuana cigarettes to soldiers in New York.
